Administrative Excellence

ICMA WORKS FOR CANADA... AND FOR YOU

Dear Colleagues,

I encourage you to consider joining over 230 CAMA members that are also International City/County Management Association (ICMA) members. ICMA membership complements your CAMA membership and offers additional great resources for an affordable affiliate discount rate of only U.S. $135. Canadian and U.S. CAOs face many of the same issues, challenges, and opportunities. My ICMA membership offers me best practices on a global scale and provides me with access to ideas and solutions applicable across North America, to help me and my community. The excellent online resources that are available to all ICMA Members are beneficial to administrators of communities of all sizes. My involvement has also extended my professional network, connecting me with people who have contributed to my growth as a municipal manager and served as my mentors as well as my friends.

Also be sure to mark your calendars for ICMA's 2016 Annual Conference, September 25-28, 2016, where thousands of city and county managers and their staffs from around the world will convene to discuss new ideas and successful practices on the critical issues we face every day. This is a unique opportunity to learn and connect with others from around the world who share our passion for public service. I always return home with some great ideas and feeling better informed, reconnected, and reenergized.

ICMA has played a vital role in my career, and I believe that it can be professionally (and personally) rewarding to everyone in local government management.

Sincerely,

Marc Landry

"It's an international world; international thinking is part of our job today. I belong to ICMA because it is the predominant local government organization in the world supported by an engaged membership and excellent administration. It is a great gathering place for city managers interested in lifelong learning and building our profession. ICMA has a wealth of information and a network that is relevant to Canadian city managers."

– Simon Farbrother

Past President of CAMA and ICMA

"When an aspiring Canadian City Manager in the 1980s, I was intrigued to learn that there were professional associations to assist and represent us in our unique profession. ICMA was a welcome addition to this mix. The economies of scale of an international association allow it to organize conferences, training programs, and materials with a magnitude and diversity of topics unimaginable.

Since attendance at my first ICMA Annual Conference, I have benefited from the services and the supportive community of fellow city managers, provided by membership in CAMA and ICMA. The access to a diversity of friends, materials, and networking forums has yielded ideas and experiences that have helped build both character and competencies."
