EMERGING TRENDS

- Economic activity and responsibilities of each level of government are changing. The lines have been blurred between the various levels in terms of service provision, and that has been problematic. CAMA will continue its positive relationship with the Federation of Canadian Municipalities and the federal bureaucrats on program design and delivery.
- Generational differences in local government. There is a demographic shift happening in CAMA's membership which will likely result in different expectations. The Association, through its membership, will mentor new and experienced municipal administrators and support the next generation of leadership.
- Ever changing technology. Given that CAMA members are located across the country, technology is transforming how we live and interact. CAMA will remain relevant to the younger generation, as well as our smaller and remote municipalities, to provide the tools necessary to share their experiences, connect more often, and be resilient leaders.
- Positive image of municipal administrator profession with elected officials. The distinction between the elected officials' role and the administrator role is important in creating a healthy relationship in a political environment. CAMA will undertake to create a number of initiatives to promote the importance of the Professional Municipal Administrator to provide the tools necessary to improve relationships between municipal administrators and elected officials.

Resilient Leadership

To ensure CAMA is providing new and existing municipal administrators with information, and a network, that assists them in their role, encourages the next generation of leaders and, promotes the importance of the Professional Municipal Administrator.

To ensure CAMA is reminding/educating members of the key components of a professional, respectful relationship between municipal administrators and Councils and how to attempt to deal with specific situations that members are encountering that undermine that healthy relationship. Help members be resilient and maintain a healthy understanding of the municipal administrator role versus the Council role.
