

MARC SEGUIN
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER &
TOWN CLERK
TOWN OF STEWIACKE, NS

Marc Seguin is the Chief Administrative Officer and Town Clerk for the Town of Stewiacke, Nova Scotia, located in Mi'kma'ki, the ancestral and unceded territory of the Mi'kmaq people. With nearly 25 years of experience in both provincial and municipal government, Marc has built a diverse and well-rounded career across British Columbia, Ontario, and now Nova Scotia.

Throughout his career, Marc has demonstrated a strong commitment to innovation, problem-solving, and strategic leadership, consistently working to address complex challenges and advance Council priorities. In addition to his professional roles, he has contributed extensively through volunteer leadership, including serving on Team Nova Scotia's Mission Staff for the Canada Games and as Chair of Sport Venues for the North American Indigenous Games in Halifax.

Marc is dedicated to continuous learning and professional development. He recently earned a Certificate in Governance and Administration from Dalhousie University and has completed Incident Command System – Crisis/Emergency/Disaster Management (ICS 100 and 200) certifications as part of his involvement with a regional Emergency Management Team.

MESSAGE FROM MARC

“I am honoured to join the CAMA Board of Directors and represent Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. I look forward to contributing to the continued strength of the Association, learning from colleagues across the country, and supporting a collaborative and forward-thinking community of municipal administrators. It is a privilege to give back to a profession I am deeply passionate about.”
